Dear Mr Milnes

Volvo file reference: 373751

Thank you for your letter dated 12 September 2007. I can confirm that Lewis Booth has received your e-mail and I am pleased to respond on his behalf. The concerns you raise have been duly noted.

We believe that daytime running lights are a valuable safety feature helping to improve visibility for Volvo drivers but also making our cars more visible to other road users and pedestrians. Notwithstanding this, a simple software download is available for all of our current models, to turn off this feature if the driver so desires.

We have an absolute commitment to safety and our decision to offer daytime running lights as standard is based on research which has shown this to be a positive safety feature.

I can confirm that our vehicles meet all current UK and European legislation. Should the legislative position change, then I assure you that we would act accordingly.

Yours sincerely
